

Fourth Celebrated By Big Fire At Tuck Memorial Ath. Field

members of the Ladies' Auxiliary officiated over the tonic and ice-cream, which also was distributed to the kiddies free of charge.
As the band ceased to play and the fire grew even more bright, the large fire hose, which had been laid previously, was turned on, and water played on all sides of the fire by firemen, and Legion members to prevent the possibility of any conflagration.

The members of the committee in charge of the observance from the local post, are to be congratulated on the huge success of the affair.

Joseph Ferguson, chairman of the committee, wishes to particularly express his sincere thanks to all those, who in any way assisted him in making the affair a success.

Others serving on this committee from the local Post were: Henry Fleming, Marvin Young, Reggie Grenier, all of Hampton, Frank Perkins of Seabrook, Harold Kent of Hampton Falls, and Harold Keene of Exeter.

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary who assisted them at the various tables were: Mrs. Maude Collins, Mrs. Anna Elwell, Mrs. Mildred Young, Mrs. Florence Fleming, Mrs. Annie Grenier, Mrs. Lorraine Brooks, and President Mrs. Lillian King, all of the local unit, who also tender their thanks to all who assisted in any way.

Some who attended, remained until the fire had burned low and daylight had come. Fire guards remained on duty until the fire was out.

N. H. AUTO DEATHS—

Francis C. Monroe, 67, of Arlington, Mass., who was struck by a car as he attempted to cross the Daniel Webster highway in Columbia; John Velchios, 20, of Newburyport, Mass., who drove a car onto the West Epping railroad crossing in the pathway of a train; Charles G. Grochowski, 13, of Nashua, a bicycle rider, who was struck by an automobile on Amhurst street in that city.

Eleven drivers, licenses were revoked last week for intoxication and there were 13 revocations for reckless driving. This last was a new record for this year. Suspensions included two because of fatal accidents, one for reckless driving, 16 for improper driving and eight for reasons not made public.

Primary causes of accidents last week were:

Two, inattention; three, turned left into traffic; one, turned left without observing conditions; seven, on wrong side of road; five, speed too great for conditions; three, speed too great at intersections; four, poor judgment; one, did not have right of way; one, delayed braking; one driving recklessly; two, drove off roadway; two, misjudged clearance; one, parking improperly; one, operator had been drinking; two, child running into street; two, child riding bicycle; one, child not watching traffic; one, adult pedestrian not watching traffic; one, adult pedestrian crossing at intersection; one, tire blew out.

who were seeking "economy" and trying to cut the $1,500,000,000 relief bill and put some restrictions on its expenditure. That "economy" idea appealed to the President for the moment, although he didn't like to apply it to relief.

So he wrote to the members of Congress urging that they drop a bill already passed by the House designed to keep the interest rate on money borrowed from Federal Land Banks down to 3½ per cent instead of letting it rise automatically to 4 per cent. That, he said, would cost the federal treasury millions.

What success this borrowed idea will have depends on the reaction of the potent Congressional farm bloc.

It's no wonder that the Superintendent of Documents at the Government Printing Office in Washington has a best seller on his hands at 10 cents a copy—the Senate Judiciary Committee's majority report on the Supreme Court bill. That report was written, jointly, by 10 of thenation's outstanding statesmen—not politicians. The honor roll includes Senators King, Van Nuys, McCarran, Burke, Connally, O'Mahoney, Hatch, Borah, Austin and Steiwer.

HANG ON TO YOUR CHAIRS!

"It was a narrow escape," the explorer said.
"Tell us about it," pleaded the audience, enraptured.

"I was cornered by a polar bear," the explorer related. "I had a gun but no ammunition. I thought of home, and the tears came to my eyes—"

"Yes—yes—"

"The tears froze as hard as rocks. I picked them from my cheeks and rammed them into my gun. I fired—"

"Go on—"

"The heat of the explosion melted the tears into a squirt of water which froze into an icy dagger as it hurtled through the cold air."

"Don't stop!"

"The dagger entered the bear's head and melted. The bear died from water on the brain."

Entrance Fee To The State Reservation A Topic For Argument

Down at the 40-acre recreational space of the State, which the Forestry Department are gradually changing from a barren stretch of sand into an attractive spot for vacationists and picnickers, the $100,000 structure which was so rapidly but well constructed yet lacks some finishing touches. The office equipment is being put in place and shortly the various units of the place will function according to schedule.

While the state has long played host to thousands of visitors weekly to its mountain domains, it is finding that the beach proposition differs much by its environment and the kind of visitors it must cater to. Instead of travelers en route from point to point as in (Continued from page four)

DID YOU KNOW

That Great Boar's Head is one of the strange geological features that has attracted scientists and students here for many generations and has been much written about?

That almost forty years before the great Salem witchcraft delusion, one, Eunice ("Goody") Cole was found guilty of being a witch here in Hampton and that her well here in Hampton and that her well never to grow brackish on the longest voyage, still remains full, though all vestige of curb or enclosing structure have gone. Hampton Beach

The ladies of the Community church held a food sale at the store in the Colonial Inn Building on F Street this week with a tempting display of home made cake and fancy articles. Mrs. Benjamin Whitehouse was in general charge, assisted by Mrs. Frank E. Nason, Miss Maude I. Entwistle, Mrs. George H. Lamott, Mrs. Evelyn F. Ruggles, Mrs. Earl Douglas, Mrs. Martha Brown and Mrs. Fred S. Pillsbury. Mrs. Ethel Powers Uhlig was also active in the activities of the afternoon. The ladies are raising money for the reshingling of the sides of the church steeple of the past twelve years having had severe effect on the stucco in numerous places.

While Robert Richter, 10, of 177 Saratoga street, Lawrence, was bathing on the beach front, a large log driven along by the waves attracted his attention, which according to officers, caused the boy to be treated for small bruises when he tried to get on the log for a ride and was knocked over. Mrs. Ruby Patterson, nurse, attended to the youth's injuries.

Tiny Lorraine Wante of 55 Margin street, Lawrence, received treatment at the first aid room early Wednesday morning for burns on the arms and legs caused by the spilling of hot coffee, being attended by nurse, Mrs. Sarah Coffin.

One of the rather attractive features of the beach on an evening are the scattered small fires where oftentimes many groups of beach visitors are having weenie roasts with mirth and laughter. On account of state laws, it is necessary for all who wish to have a fire on the beach to get a permit from the fire warden, who also happens to be the Hampton Fire Chief, Geo. H. Lamott at the fire station.

The regular Wednesday night fireworks drew a very large attendance as did, the band concerts in the afternoon and evening. Many of the hearers are sending in requests for special numbers which are always given if possible.

Tuesday night was held the postponed amateur audition, the first of the regular Monday night events which last season was one of the most popular features of the week's events. Despite the rather chill wind a crowd which completely filled the Casino verandas and extended from the bandstand well into the roadway gave friendly applause to all the entrants. The winners were, Juniors: Patricia Naley, 12 of Seabrook, first tap Pierre, 11, of Nashua, who is stopping on Boston avenue at the Beach, piano solo, "Silvery Echoes."

Others taking part were Bessie Arbanitis, 12, of Manchester who who is stopping on Marsh avenue; Jacquelyn Cann, 8 Street, Beach, 8 tap dance and song, "School Days"; Joan Manelas, 6, of I Street, Beach, Russian dance; Louise Moran, 11, of 40 River avenue, Beach, tap dance; Marilyn Sherman, 5, of Portsmouth, song and dance, "Goody-Goody". Seniors: winners first, Marguerite Soper, Worcester, song; second, Danny Mills, Haverhill, song. Others were Ada Marie McClure of Denver, Colo, who is stopping at the Ashworth Hotel, singing impersonations; Paul Lane, Arlington, bass solo; Olive Mello, Cambridge, song; and Adriene Stokes.

Among the visitors at the Beach Tuesday was J. W. Quimby, founder and superintendent of the Shanghai Hebrew Mission, returning from China after an absence from this country of nine years to fill speaking engagements at conventions in New York and Philadelphia and motoring along New England coasts.

Summer Employees Should Send Account Numbers In At Once

Concord, N. H., July 9. — The 5000 odd employees in the seasonal summer resort business in New Hampshire are urged by Gordon P. Eager, Administrator, New Hampshire Unemployment Compensation Division to apply immediately for their Social Security account number if they have not already done so.

Payroll reports are being received at the Division from several summer resorts without the account numbers for the employees. Employers report that the account numbers are difficult to secure as a good percentage of their employees are seasonal workers or students who never have applied for an account number.

Employers are asked to cooperate by advising their employees who have not secured an account number to do so immediately and thereby protect themselves against becoming delinquent and subject to a 1 percent fine. Reports not properly filled out, as prescribed by the Division will be returned to the employer as incomplete.

In the event that the employee fails to act, the employer is required by the Federal Social Security Board and the State of New Hampshire to make application on behalf of the employee and secure a number for him.

The employee to protect himself against any possible confusion in the maintenance of Unemployment Compensation records should give his employer his number as soon as he starts working.

Beach Items

Members of the Neighborhood Whist club of Concord Heights, Concord, N. H., motored to this beach Wednesday for a days enjoyment of the air and waves and a shore dinner, returning home after the display of fireworks.

The high running seas of the past few days have caused a bad undertow and Wednesday afternoon, the watch at the Hampton Beach Coast Guard station discovered three parties in the surf about a hundred yards north of the station who had been taken by the undertow and were being carried out despite their hardest efforts to regain shore. Frederick C. Maxwell, Boatswain's Mate 2nd class, and surfmen Wallace V. Mullin, Charles H. Faulkingham and Carlton T. Scovill went out and brought them in much exhausted, so much so that all would have drowned if aid had not arrived promptly. On arrival at the shore Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Barnkit of Manchester required only rest and were shortly able to leave while Mrs. David Kidd of Brookline, Mass. who had gone down once and had taken in some water required more time and attention. All recovered without requiring a physician to be called to supplement the work of the Coast Guards and left for the Trailer camp where they were stopping.

The Lincoln Stores of Lowell and Newburyport held their annual outing Wednesday, going by buses to Rye Beach where they had swimming and land sports coming to Hampton Beach in the late afternoon where they had a shore dinner at the Ashworth Hotel, 75 sitting down at the tables with an infor-

Fire At Cottage On N Street Saved By Beach Fire Dept.

Hampton Beach—An alarm from Box 6 at 6:50 last Thursday called the fire department to the cottage on N street of Mrs. Mary Blanchette of Manchester who is stopping at the Avon House. According to the report of the fire department officials, the blaze started from a small grass fire caused by a cigarette and jumping to the lower course of shingles on the house. The prompt action of the department put the fire out with little damage.

The United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports that there will be abundant supplies of potatoes for the summer months.

Union Summer Services

As in former years the Methodist, Baptist and Congregational Churches will hold Union Services on the five Sundays in August and the first Sunday in September.

All are cordially invited. Why not make it your motto: "When in town I will attend the Union Service. When out of town I will attend some church service wherever I may be."

The following is the Schedule of Services:
Aug. 1—at the Methodist church.
Aug. 8 —
Aug. 15—at the Baptist church.
Aug. 22 —
Aug. 29—at the Congregational Church.
Sept. 5—at the Congregational Church.

HAVE A CARE!

When one person is killed it may be an accident, but when 43 persons were killed in automobile tragedies in the National Capital of the United States in the first 22 weeks of 1937 as compared with 33 for the same period last year, it is a challenge to those who have charge of law-enforcement.

Eighty-nine cities show increases in traffic fatalities. Only 38 reported a decrease. New York has had 383 traffic deaths in the 1937 period against 330 last year. Chicago's record this year is 305, as compared with 276 last year.

The new automobiles are the easiest machines to drive that ever came out of factories. They go just where the drivers direct them, and they obey commands for either low or high speed. The streets and roads are marked with signs, cautions and commands. The traffic authorities offer plenty of help, and their rules for speed and manner of driving provide for every condition that the driver has to meet. Still certain drivers kill people needlessly.

"We Drivers" is an invaluable booklet distributed every where by General Motors that tells how accidents happen and the ways to avoid them. Here are some of the causes:

Twenty-nine per cent of the accidents reported involved pedestrians; 53 per cent collisions with other cars; 18 per cent involves other collisions, running off the roadway and so on. Pedestrians meet with 60 per cent of their accidents wholly or partly owing to lack of care on their own part. Exceeding the speed limits and driving on the wrong side of the road contribute to many accidents. About 6 per cent of the drivers and from 7 to 8 per cent of the pedestrians in accidents are reported as intoxicated, or "had been drinking." About 15 per cent of the serious accidents are caused by the failure of the driver or owner of the car to maintain safe brakes, headlights and other features of the machinery for which he alone is responsible.

the mountains, here most of its patrons are those who come to this place primarily for the beach trip and a sun and water exposure. The thousands of these people have at some time parked their cars in the free areas of the mountain parking spaces and large numbers have also enjoyed the use of the free camping sites, the camp fire places with their free wood, and many other conveniences which a thoughtful supervisory force has provided without charge.

Presumably complaints have been coming into Concord from New Hampshire tax payers protesting against the payment of an entrance fee to the parking space of twenty-five cents when they merely wish to see what the state has put up and not to otherwise use it, for Director Russell Tobey has announced that those who pay the 25 cents parking fee and time their inspection so as to go thru the building and return to the gate with their machines in 30 minutes can get their 25 cents back by asking for it. Whether or not there will go protests to Concord that 30 minutes to make the circuit is hurrying folks particularly on warm days, is a question.

Those who favor the bath house assert that it will be a great advertising asset to the beach and bring great numbers here who would otherwise not come.

If the latter are right, it is going to cause traffic congestion on Sundays and holidays far beyond anything yet seen and will force the state to put in the long sought new road over the marshes to care for this heavy traffic and might even get the united force of the state backing the canal project to the Merrimack river from the Hampton river, which it is understood plans a wide boulevard on both sides of the canal and would solve the traffic problem to the satisfaction of all. On one point both sides seem to agree, the bath house will not long remain without additional facilities and without supplying additional features of diversion to afford entertainment to its patrons.

MUSIC FESTIVAL—

Continued from page one guest artist on Saturday and sang two groups of solos, and on the program also were Fabien Sevitzky and his Ensembles and the United New Hampshire Chorus. Sunday at noon there was a short orchestral serenade for brass instruments followed by an orchestral and vocal concert at 5 P. M. with Phebe Davison, soprano; Edna Merritt, mezzo-soprano; Howard Harrington, tenor; Norman M. Leavitt, baritone, and Theodore Podnos, violinist, as the soloists. The festival was opened at five o'clock Saturday afternoon by the presentation of flowers from the State Federation of Women's clubs to Mrs. Hobson, a member of the Federation and president of the festival by Mrs. Louis Elkins, president of the Federation, who said, "To me has come a great honor, that is, to represent the women of this beloved state of ours and on this music festival. From the mountains to the sea the women of the state are sending to Mrs. Hobson greetings this day. God has given us music to clear our souls. God has given us flowers to give to those we love. You, Mrs. Hobson, have brought us music and to you we give these flowers to represent our love and appreciation." Mrs. Hobson responded in her usual very gracious manner. Under the direction of Fabien Sevitzky the orchestra and chorus with Miss Bori as soloist, presented a two-hour concert of delightful music. The Orchestral Serenade at noon Sunday was listened to by an appreciative audience and the program consisted of two beautiful and difficult numbers which brought out to perfection the ability of the musicians. The last concert on Sunday at 5 o'clock was enjoyed by thousands of our patrons. (Continued on Page Eight)

HAMPTON BEACH

The employees of J. J. Newberry Stores of Lowell came to Hampton their annual outing by special bus Beach Wednesday morning for all set for a good time and raring to go. Arriving at the beach swimming, bicycling, and a long list of sports were enjoyed, Helen Riley in a white satin bathing suit was the winner of the beauty contest. In the afternoon, a shore dinner was enjoyed at Mahoney's Lunch corner of B Street and the was in charge of the affair. Others in the party included Mae Fitzpatrick, Bell Keane, Dorothy Trudell, Nora Brody, Kay Burke, Helen Riley, Madeline Culbert, Walter Vincent, Bill Fitzpatrick, Evelyn Nespil, Mary McQuarrie, Lillian LaVallee, Elsie Sullivan, Eddie Burke, Rudy Cockealane, Hilda Martin, Mrs. Blanchard, Gertrude St. Onge, Kay Lyons, Madeline Shields, Mona Shanahan, Gloria Curran, Isabel Rodgers, Mrs. Hurley, Frances Larkin, Natalie Rodgers, Grace Hurley and Mary Sullivan.

At the Ashworth Hotel, Wednesday, members of the New Hampshire Fish and Game Commission and the New Hampshire State Forestry Commission with invited guests and ladies had a shore dinner after which they visited the state bath house and other points of interest. Hon. Elihu T. Adams, as representative of Seabrook duly impressed upon the fifty or thereabouts who comprised the party the many attractions of the two beaches and at the state bath house after going thru the various departments on the ground floor, the party enjoyed the breezes and view from the promenade deck where the comfortable chairs invited all to linger. Manager Tobey and his assistants fully explained the workings of the new plant.

The New Hampshire Retail Lumbermen's association had their annual summer meeting at this beach Wednesday afternoon with a shore dinner at the Ashworth Hotel. At the conclusion of the banquet, Jack Burt of Warsaw, Wis., past president of the Wisconsin Retail Lumbermen's association; Paul Collier, secretary of the New England Retail Lumbermen's Ass'n.; Vernon Hawkins, president of the Hrwkins Lumber & Supply Co., of Boston and H. A. Bellows of Springfield addressed the gathering on matters relating to the trade. A talking movie, showing the story of the manufacture of cedar shingles, concluded the program for the day. Alfred Janvrin and Richard Janvrin as local representatives were in charge of the details of the affair. Low lying clouds, a northeasterly wind and occasional precipitation kept most of the beach visitors indoors Monday. Indoors, card parties and other forms of entertainment furnished plenty of fun.

Stopping at the Colonial Inn are the Unity Club of Durham, on their annual beach weeks outing. They had their lobster dinner at the Lorenz Sea Grill bringing a huge floral peice for a table decoration. Those present were Esther J. Burnham, president; Mrs. Martha Robinson, Mrs. Laura Morrison, Mrs. Lena Hoitt, Mrs. Eliza Daniels, Mrs. Vesta Wentworth, Mrs. Hattie Runlett, Mrs.

Augusta Ederly, Mrs. Jabez Stevenson, Mrs. Sadie B. Ellison, Mrs. Evelyn Knight, Mrs. Ivy Belle Chesley. Down at the harbor, fishermen are much interested over the appearance of salmon in the river, the first time they have ever been seen here. Everett Dow while fishing for polluck saw fish jumping in the river in the deep section dredged out for anchorage place for boats which the fishermen call "the hole". After watching the jumping fish a short time, Mr. Dow dropped his line in and in a few minutes was having a busy spell trying to bring his fish in, which after time was accomplished and the catch proved to be a small salmon. Mr. Dow reported that the fish made an appetizing meal and as he saw others, it is possible that Hampton river salmon may become a common sight at the fish marts.

"Skipper" Albert J. Dumbrack for several years has been taking out occasionally on his fishing parties, an earnest if unsuccessful would be fish catcher. Sunday the enthusiast was again on hand and expressed the hope that he might have some luck this day. After anchoring Joe Horner of Haverhill in a dory off Boars Head to catch polluck, they went further out where the hopeful enthusiast had the first nibble. It proved to be a real bite and the skipper on hand with gaff brought in a 38 pound cod, the biggest caught so far this season, and made the earnest fisherman winner of the pool also.

brought back no fish, but all had well sharpened appetites, tired muscles and a good assortment of blisters. They had great praise for the Coast Guards discovering their plight, their boat being small and low in the water and difficult to make out at that distance. A send-off party was tendered to Mrs. Bertha Lorenz at the Lorenz Sea Shell Monday night, the occasion being her leaving for New Bedford on a trip for her health. About twenty of her friends gathered to wish her a pleasant trip and presented her with numerous gifts.

At the state bath house, the river end of the bathing beach is one of the bothersome places. Mrs. Mildred Burke of 227, W. London street, Lowell, going out at the river mouth found it impossible to make her way back and her plight being seen by Franklin Dow, a soldier at Camp Devens who was swimming near by, he went to her aid, but both received bruises from the rocks at that point and were treated at the first aid room.

While on duty in the tower of the Hampton Beach Coast Guard station Tuesday about 1:30 P.M. Charles H. Faulkingham sighted a small skiff about three miles out from the station tossing about in the choppy sea and making little progress. Notifying the officer in charge, a crew from the station consisting of Fred Maxwell, Boatswain's mate, 2nd class; Ruel St. Marie, and Carlton T. Scovill, surfmen were sent to the Hampton river where they took the station power boat and went out and took the occupants of the skiff aboard and towed the skiff up to the station where surfmen Wallace B. Mullin and John E. Splaine launched the station boat, came out and took the skiffs party and skiff and brought them ashore. The power boat then returned to its station at the river where it had returned the night before after having itself been towed to Gloucester with a bad motor and had a new motor installed.

The occupants of the skiff, Lester B. Tobey, Paul L. Tobey, Nelson W. Tobey, S. S. Loh and N. Haug, all of Hampton had gone out about ten in the morning in a 14-foot skiff with oars, for a fishing trip. They had hardly thrown in their lines when the wind started to come up strongly from the southeast, with a heavy chop, the waves running so high that they were obliged to head into them and could make no headway toward home. They had been putting in all their energy at the oars for several hours before they were picked up and were both exhausted with their efforts as well as wet with the spr which came over the low sides of their skiff. Knowing New Hampshire

Undoubtedly the outstanding water problem of the state at the present time is flood control. The disastrous floods of 1927 and 1936 are still fresh in mind and action is demanded.

The total direct damage caused by the 1936 flood was $10,417,924, as estimated by the New Hampshire Flood Reconstruction Council. The indirect losses-wages and business lost because of the closing of factories and stores-are difficult to compute, but it is estimated that they total as much or more than the direct damage.

Following the flood, federal and state agencies gave much study to flood control. The river drainage basins were surveyed and recommendations were made, but nothing was actually done toward preventing or controlling future floods.

Accordingly, most experts agree that storage reservoirs must be built both for power and for flood protection consistent with provisions for adequate financing and reimbursement for project costs, where material power development does ensue. Experience in New England has confirmed the value of power-storage reservoirs in this respect.

In 1936 Congress passed the so-called Omnibus Flood Control Act which authorized the construction of flood control reservoirs in the Connecticut and Merrimack River Valleys. The Omnibus Flood Control Act estimated construction costs for flood-control reservoirs (five, all in New Hampshire) in the Merrimack River basin to be $7,725,000, and estimated cost of lands and damages at $3,500,000. For the Connecticut River valley the estimated construction costs (for ten reservoirs, four in New Hampshire) were $10,028,900, and estimated cost of land and damages, $3,344,100.

Following the passage of this act, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut appointed interstate compact commissions to negotiate an agreement on the proportions of reservoir land costs and damages to be borne by each state.

After considerable study and several conferences, the commissions have finally agreed upon eight reservoirs in the Connecticut River basin, an apportionment of land damages, and a method of operating the reservoirs. Three of the eight flood-control reservoirs would be located in New Hampshire at Bethlehem Junction, Stocker Pond and Surry Mountain. Under the terms of the proposed compact Massachusetts would pay 50 per cent of the land costs and damages, Connecticut 40 per cent, and New Hampshire and Vermont 5 per cent each, New Hampshire's share amounting to $135,000.

The New Hampshire and Massachusetts compact commissions have also negotiated the terms of a compact with regard to the Merrimack River basin flood-control reservoirs. Two reservoirs have been agreed upon, at Franklin and at Webster, at a total construction cost estimated at $5,277,000 and land costs and damages at $2,285,000. An equal apportionment of land costs and damages has been agreed upon, New Hampshire, on this basis, paying $1,142,500.

Both the Connecticut and the Merrimack River compacts have been ratified in identical form by the legislatures of the states concerned. Congress must now ratify the compacts before they become effective. The cost of a flood control reservoir system which would completely do away with floods would be prohibitive. The reservoirs included in the Merrimack and Connecticut River Valley compacts for immediate construction will, when built, cut down the height of floods but will not eliminate them.

Reservoir building should be supplemented by an evacuation of the lowlying areas adjacent to the rivers which are frequently flooded.

Little Virginia Murry 14, of 181 Auburn street, Manchester, N. H., was awfully anxious to get into the water Sunday, she was hungry too, and after eating a good dinner she hurried into the water. It wasn't a pleasant experience for Virginia because the chill of the ocean waves interfered with the digestive process and she was seized with convulsions. She was taken to the first aid room where Mrs. Ruby Patterson, the registered nurse, gave her first aid and called in Dr. Wayne P. Bryer who treated her. She responded to treatment and was able to spend the rest of the afternoon on the beach watching the bathers but without enjoying the thrill of the water herself. "I didn't think it made any difference," she told the nurse, "but I went hurry into the water again after eating."

Miss Marian Allen of 125 Haverhill street, Lawrence was brought to the first aid room in a fainting spell and revived by the nurse and Marietta Stevenson of 16 A Pal-mouth street, Lawrence was brought in with a sprained ankle returning home after treatment.

Theo Sheehan of Peabody who was swimming at the same point with a young lady companion was obliged to assist the young lady when she could not make her way against the current at this point and in helping her ashore both were scratched by the rocks and were given first aid. Broad-way, Lawrence, was given first aid after he had grasped at a board floating by and found that he had stuck a nail into his left hand. After treatment he was advised to see his family doctor on reaching home.

Julius Drucker, 238 East 7th St. New York City, was brought into the Seabrook Municipal Court on Saturday evening by Deputy Sheriff Floyd Gale. Drucker, a hitch hiker, was tried before Judge Ralph Bragg on the charge of carrying a revolver without a license. He was given 90 days in the Portsmouth Jail.

The thunder shower of last Friday afternoon was quite severe at the beach. Several places were struck at this resort, among them the new State Bath House, but no serious damage was reported.

At present there are about 20 camps on Nudd's Camp Ground at Hampton Beach. Among those who come every summer are the W. O. Hughes of New York City, who are here for their twelfth consecutive summer and Rev. and Mrs. Stillman Thornton of Saxonville, Mass. here for their sixth consecutive season. The majority of the campers come for the entire season.

SAFETY FIRST

The following sign is posted by the roadside as you enter a west-ern town:
4,076 people died last year of gas.
39 inhaled it.
37 put a lighted match to it.
4,000 stepped on it.

He rushed wildly through the hall. His face was contorted. Foam dripped from his lips. Children leaped from his path. He looked like a man gone mad. Finally he shouted: "Say—can't a fellow even brush his teeth any more without the water being cut off?"

MUSIC FESTIVAL

GRIEF!

It was the first real snowstorm of the year and the teacher felt it her duty to warn her pupils before she dismissed them. "Boys and girls should be very careful at this time of year to avoid colds," she began solemnly. "I had a darling little brother only seven years old. One day he went out in the snow with his new sled and caught cold. Pneumonia set in, and in three days he was dead."

CIRCUMLOCUTION?

A small boy just starting to school who could not pronounce his "r" correctly was asked by the teacher to repeat this sentence after her: "Robert gave Richard a rap in the ribs for roasting the rabbit so rare."

John B. Monahan

The funeral of John B. Monahan was held from his late home on the Ocean Boulevard last Friday with a requiem mass at 10 o'clock at St. Patrick's church celebrated by Rev. Launcelot Quinn, with Rev. M. J. Hurley as deacon and Rev. A. L. Mullen as sub-deacon. Rev. J. B. Foley of Manchester was master of ceremonies. A very large attendance showing the high esteem in which he was held by the beach people. The beach police station was draped in black and a detail of officers—Jerome Harkness, Leavitt McGrath, Clifford Eastman, William Elliot, Clinton Durant, and Eugene Hannon—acted as bearers, the police tribute being very noticeable among the numerous floral pieces. Burial was in the Hampton cemetery Mr. Monahan who was born in Scotland came to American in his early youth, coming to Hampton from Worcester. He had been connected with the Hampton police department for the past twenty years, but for many years went to Florida each winter. For the past two years he had been on full time, covering the beach during the winter.

Boy Scouts Coming Next Week For Their Jamboree At Beach

constructed state bath house will afford them some additional conveniences. While the Scouts will have their vanguards on the grounds by next Monday morning, the various troops will not come in until Tuesday and for four days the beach will be theirs. During the years they have made their annual Jamboree at this beach, they have not only added to the picture by the infusion of their uniforms into the panorama of happy vacationists in garbs of every hue, but they have demonstrated the possibility of a mass of thousand of boys just at the age when exuberance of spirits is less likely to be modified by soundness of judgment behaving in a way to win the respect and admiration of the beach people and the great number of visitors who come here on these days solely to see the Boy Scouts. Any organization which can accomplish such results and still leave the boy natural and spontaneous, is entitled to the hearty cooperation of those who take no other part than of giving their financial assistance to the movement.

GENTLE IRONY

A young hostess rushed George Bernard Shaw and him what he thought of the artist who had just played. Saw: "He reminds me of erewski." Hostess: "But Paderewski is a violinist." Shaw: "Just so. Just so."

Prof. Goldthwaite Visits Hampton To See Historic Rock

Thursday afternoon, Prof. James W. Goldthwaite, professor of Geology at Dartmouth College acting on request of the Hampton folks who are trying to verify the tradition that under a rock marked with crosses at Hampton Beach lie the remains of Thorvald, son of Eric the Red and brother of Leif Ericsson visited the rock off the Winnicummatt road and made preliminary studies of the rock. Because of limited time, he was unable to complete his investigations and plans to return for more complete study of the rock soon.

Boy Scouts At Park For Annual Jamboree

Monday found the cottages well filled with summer folks who took advantage of the weather for many activities. Down at the State Bath House, the Scouts arriving at frequent intervals made a busy scene as they put up tents and made ready for a comfortable stay. About 1200 Scouts were in camp here, in a village of tents. Instead of having company streets as last year, Scout troops were allowed to take their pick of locations without regard to any layout. Among the early arrivals were Sea Scout Ship No. 3 of Concord, Skipper Ansart with a crew of 30, who brought along on a truck their good ship, the S. S. George H. Perkins, which they set up north of the Chamber of Commerce office. This speedy boat with its wheel house and other parts in sections with electric lights and signal staff made an attractive appearance and manned by an alert crew was the center of much interest. Troop 207 of Berlin under Skipper James Gothreau brought forty as a starter, part of whom were Sea Scouts and others Boy Scouts. Troop 176 of Dover in charge of Scoutmaster Daniel Hughes brought 18 Scouts; Troop 112 of Manchester, Leo St. Jean, Scoutmaster brought 5; and Troop 250 of Nashua, George LaBounty, Assistant Scoutmaster brought about a dozen. The Portsmouth Sea Scouts in their open boat the S. S. Ranger which had just been put into the water for the season left Portsmouth Monday noon, five strong, Francis Hett, mate, Albert Beuer, Charles Richards, Francis Hughes and Albert MacFarland sailing with a fair wind until they reached Great Boar's Head when the wind shifting, after many tacks which netted losses, they took down the sail and completed the trip to the Hampton Harbor Yacht club using oars, arriving five weak about 8 P. M.
